Recorded SDoH Screening and Referral Communication

Drs. Carol Connell and Laura Downey

Recorded Webinar

PROGRAM OVERVIEW

This presentation will provide an overview of an approach to connecting patients, particularly rural patients, with local resources that address social determinants of health. These resources are in the domains of food and nutrition, healthcare services, shelter and clothing, community services, and physical health. At the end of the presentation, participants will discuss the approach and how to increase its usefulness and usability by pharmacists. There is no registration fee for this program.

Following registration, participants will have access to course instructions, presentations, recorded webinar, program evaluation, CE certificates and credits, etc. This program is approved for 1.0 ACPE Contact Hours, .1 CEUs. Once credit is awarded, transcripts will be available online within 24 hours on the learner's CPE Monitor profile at <http://nabp.pharmacy/>. This program is also approved by ABN and ACCME.

The Office of Alumni and Professional Affairs strongly encourages each participant to check their profile online within 60 days of attendance to ensure credit has been awarded properly. ACPE will not accept CE submissions after 60 days from the live seminar date.

This program was funded by a grant provided by the Centers for Disease Control and Prevention, No. 1NU58DP007399-01-00 - A Strategic Approach to Advancing Health Equity for Priority Populations with or at Risk for Diabetes, under a subcontract with the Alabama Department of Public Health.

PROGRAM FACULTY

Dr. Carol Connell, MS, Ph.D., is the Interim Extension Specialist in the Department of Nutritional Sciences at the Auburn University College of Human Sciences. She received her Ph.D. in Nutrition and Food Systems from the University of Southern Mississippi. Her research focuses on working with multi-disciplinary teams to assess nutrition and health concerns among rural and/or low-income populations and then develop and test theory-based, community nutrition and physical activity programs for efficacy and effectiveness using mixed methods research. Dr. Connell's other research interests include food insecurity, food access, and the intersection of these with health and health disparities both in children and adults.

Dr. Laura Downey is the Associate Dean for Extension in the College of Human Sciences at Auburn University and the Assistant Director for Human Sciences Extension Programs with the Alabama Cooperative Extension System. She received her doctorate from the University of Kentucky and her M.S. and B.A. from Auburn University. Since returning to Auburn University in 2022, she has provided overall leadership for Human Sciences Extension programs. Before taking her current position, Dr. Downey was a professor and Extension specialist in the School of Human Sciences at Mississippi State University, where she led Extension program planning and evaluation efforts. Central to her work is a collaborative approach that engages Extension professionals, university students and faculty, community members, informal and formal leaders, and other community-based professionals as co-learners. Dr. Downey specializes in program development and evaluation with specialization in the development and evaluation of health education programs. When not working, she enjoys spending time with her husband and four children or reading a good book.
